Farm Crop Debts to Be Lightest in History This Fall

Sharp Reduction Made in Federal Program This Spring

CLOSING SATURDAY

Total May Run to 900 Applications for $125,000 or $130,000

Federal crop loans in Hempstead county will run considerably less this year than in 1932, with the loan program for the current season closing Saturday night, April 30.

Notice of the April 30th deadline for applications to be filed in the Memphis Loan Bureau, was received here early in the week by the Hempstead Loan Committee from Karl M. Blanchard, manager at Memphis.

Up to Wednesday noon about 575 checks have been received by Hempstead county farmers, for the total amount of $75,000 or $80,000. The total number of applications will be around 900, and the total amount probably $125,000 or $130,000.

Last year the government loaned approximately 1,000 individuals more than $150,000 in this county.

The number of applications is about as great this year, but farmers are asking for smaller amounts; and where the amount requested is equal to last year, the Memphis bureau has cut it down.

Hempstead farmers are expected to reach harvest time this fall owing less on current account than any time probably in the last twenty years, in the opinion of local observers.

Hoover Urges Economy in Speech

Chief Executive Addresses Governors Meeting in Virginia

RICHMOND, Va.—(AP)—As a "sure highway to national recovery," President Hoover cited to the governors conference Wednesday the absolute necessity of reduced expenditures, better distributed taxation and balanced budgets on the part of the government.

"We cannot restore economic stability in the nation by continuing to siphon so large a part of our private effort into the coffers of the government," he said.

Recluse Uses Gun To End His Life

Walter Harvey, 73, Requests He Be Buried in Military Uniform

MENA—Walter Harvey, aged 73, recluse, but believed to be a member of a well known Virginia family, ended his life by firing three bullets into his brain Tuesday. The affair occurred near 12 years. Deputy Sheriff Hunsage said a revolver found in the dead man's hand contained four empty cartridges.

An inquest held by Justice J. S. Fakes of Vandervoort developed testimony that Harvey made burial arrangements with Looney Whitely, a neighbor. He told Whitely he was preparing to end his life. Whitely found Harvey's body after neighbors had heard shots.

It is said Harvey wrote two notes in which he said that he was ending his life and selected the clothing he desired for burial. One of the requests was that he be buried in an old military uniform he had worn while a student in a Virginia college.

The lawyer said he knew that Spitale pleaded with Lindbergh not to make the payment.

Kentucky Brothers Die in Gun Battle

Conflicting Stories Follow Fight in Which Kinsmen Are Slain

LOUISA, Ky.—(AP)—Two brothers were shot and killed in a gun battle Tuesday at Keaton, Johnson county, 25 miles from here and just across the Lawrence county line.

The dead are Alma Fyffe, 34, and Noah Fyffe, 38, a Johnson county deputy sheriff. A younger brother, John Fyffe, was present at the shooting, but there were conflicting stories as to whether he participated.

Deputy Noah Fyffe arrested his brother, Alma, a farmer, on a liquor charge Sunday, but Alma escaped, escaped while Noah was taking him to Paintsville.

Tuesday afternoon the three brothers met in Winice Mullins' blacksmith shop at Keaton, and the shooting began.

John Fyffe passed through Louisa after the shooting, said he had not participated, but that Noah and Alma killed each other, and said he was on his way to Wilbur for his parents.

Johnson county officers, however, said they had heard reports Noah killed Alma, shooting him three times and then John fatally shot Noah. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Fyffe of Wilbur, Lawrence county.

Treasure Hunter Slain By Negroes

Three Held in Jail at Bastrop, Louisiana Over Killing

BASTROP, La.—(AP)—Three negroes were arrested and charged late Tuesday with the fatal shooting of W. A. Givens, 56-year-old Bastrop man, who was killed near Bonita Monday night while digging for a treasure fortune teller had predicted would be found on the farm of the negroes.

The negroes, William Watt and his two sons, Myrie and Tyrie, were said to have confessed to sheriff's officers that they killed Givens. They declared that they had fired in the victim's direction to scare him away from their farm and that they had no intention of killing him, officers said.

Givens, with four negro diggers, went Monday night to Watt's farm, carrying spades and a divining rod. While they were digging they were fired upon and the negroes fled to Bastrop and notified officers who went to the spot.

Officers said they found Givens dead from ax wounds on the head and a bullet in his shoulder.

Men in Custody Charged With Destroying Cotton Belt Property

TEXARKANA.—Seven men were in custody Tuesday charged with wrecking the Genoa depot, 12 miles south-east of here, and smashing about 100 glass insulators against the railroad tracks outside the station. Deputy Sheriff Arthur Turquette and Special Agent Hanson of the Cotton Belt railroad, who investigated, reported that the station was almost destroyed. Windows were smashed, stoves overturned, doors broke off their hinges and planks from the floor pulled up. Geo. Elkins, Jr., 19, and Oval Margason, 30, were charged with wrecking the state, while Paul Favors, Derl Elkins, Arthur Rose, Herman Skeels and Gail Mason were named by the officers as the ones who smashed the insulators. A hearing will be given the men Wednesday.

Two Arrested in Ohio Blast Case

Chicago Police Hold Former Columbus Men as Alleged Bombers

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Ohio's search for the explanation of a blast which wrecked its new state office building in Columbus with loss of 10 lives involved Tuesday two men arrested here in a stolen automobile loaded with explosives and dynamiting tools.

They are Edward B. Wallace, 30, once a federal convict, and Frank Wilson, 24, both of Columbus. They were seized last Thursday in possession of dynamite and tools stolen from the S. A. Healy Construction Company when it installed a sewer interceptor at Columbus about a year ago. Both were discharged for three years, officials of the firm said.

Ohio officials first believed the building had been bombed but later credited a theory of a gas explosion. They denied the men were wanted in Columbus for anything but car theft or as safe-blowing subjects.

Wallace admitted, police said, he had been employed in a sub-cellar of the state office building, a $5,000,000 structure nearing completion which was severely damaged in the blast April 14. He refused to waive extradition to Ohio.

The Examiner had been waging a campaign against organized crime in Canton and other Ohio cities.

The shooting came just six years after the slaying of Don Melton, crusading Canton editor, who was assassinated while waging a war against crime in this city.

Husband Accuses Wife in Baby Trade

Suit in Philadelphia Court Avers Wealthy Matron Sought Inheritance

PHILADELPHIA.—(AP)—Fantastic details of a baby substitution allegedly perpetrated by a wealthy and childless married woman to collect an inheritance, and two unwed mothers came to light Tuesday in an equity action filed in Dauphin County court.

Euston A. Sullivan of Merion filed a petition to strike from the vital statistics of the state the record of the birth to his wife, Grace May Sullivan, on October 12, 1931, at St. Vincent's hospital, Philadelphia. His petition denied that he is the father of the six-month-old girl or that his wife, Helen Blair Sullivan, is the mother.

He declared the baby is the child of Miss Edith Crebbe, a Detroit nurse, who was arrested at Downingtown, Pa., last week in connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping and subsequently absolved in that case.

Sullivan declared he left his wife in the winter of 1930, went to Florida and then Swampscott, Mass., where Mrs. Sullivan visited him on July 4, 1931.

Mrs. Sullivan returned to Merion, advised her family she expected to have a child and made plans for the event. On October 9, 1931, she left home to go to a private hospital in Boston.

Instead, Sullivan said, she went to the Clinton hotel here and registered as Mrs. Gerald E. Hardy of London. As Mrs. Hardy, the petition continues, she visited Miss Crebbe in the maternity ward of the hospital and conspired with her to represent the baby as that of Mrs. Sullivan.

This was accomplished, it is alleged, by informing hospital authorities that Miss Crebbe in reality was the wife of Euston Sullivan.

Later Miss Crebbe refused to relinquish her baby to Mrs. Sullivan, the petition declares, but another unmarried mother at St. Vincent's, described as Mary Smith, turned over her baby, and this child was christened Grace May Sullivan at St. Margaret's church November 8, 1931.

Sullivan says he has no knowledge of the present whereabouts of his wife or the second baby. Miss Crebbe's child is said to be in Detroit.

Just how Mrs. Sullivan's alleged fraud would have won her a legacy was not made clear. Her father was the late William L. Blair, a former partner of Milton Hershel, the candy manufacturer. Blair left his fortune in a trust fund for his widow to be divided at her death.

Ritchie Cites Prohibition and Farm Situation in Talk

RICHMOND, Va.—(AP)—National prohibition and the farm situation were cited by Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland Tuesday night as "illustrations of the importance of excessive federalism and a revelation of the limitations inherent in over-centralization." The final speaker on the program at a state dinner given executives attending the annual governors' conference now in session here, Governor Ritchie asserted that "the present upsurge in our economic equilibrium is largely due to the upsurge in our federal equilibrium."

Head of Treasury Looses Powerful Offensive Attack

Payment of Bonus Destroys All Hopes of Balanced Budget

Would Paralyze Credit of United States, He Declares

MEYER IS SPEAKER

The Federal Reserve Bank Head Agrees With Secretary

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Secretary Mills Wednesday loosed a powerful administration offensive against the cash payment of the soldiers' bonus before the House Ways and Means Committee.

"To select this moment to select our hopes of a balanced budget to deal a smashing blow to national confidence is to me, simply incomprehensible."

Dry up credit and you dry up the economy and paralyze enterprise.

Eugene Meyer, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, added his protest to that of Mr. Mills, saying "tinker with currency, you endanger the confidence of the whole world in the United States."

Aid Offer Refused By State Engineer

L. R. Plemmons of District 7 Rejects Plans of Ouchita County Judge

CAMDEN.—State highways in Ouchita county and District No. 7 will be maintained by the highway department, District Engineer L. R. Plemmons said. Several days ago it was announced that County Judge Watt Jordan would co-operate with the highway department, in paying salaries for operators of road machinery in maintaining state highways in this county.

Mr. Plemmons said that this was not necessary and that the county judge would have nothing to do with state highways.

State crews have been at work on graveled highways the past few days and all roads are being placed in first class condition, Mr. Plemmons declared.

Youth Injured By Falling Into Disc

Team Becomes Frightened as Youth is Plowing in Father's Field

CHARLESTON.—Otha Hammond, aged 19, son of Arthur Hammond, farmer living in the Six Mile neighborhood east of Charleston, was brought to a hospital here Tuesday suffering from serious injuries sustained while plowing with a disc plow. The team became frightened and lunged forward, causing Otha to fall among the discs. He also is suffering from the loss of blood. He was unconscious when received at the hospital. Physicians said he probably would recover.

He pointed possibilities under the Anderson plan of a country in which the advantage gained by the abolition of the legalized liquor traffic, and saloon were preserved in which temperance was obtained by regulation in which bootlegging was ended and in which the billions of dollars of profits from the sales of liquor were used to fight crime.

Mr. Loesch opposed repeal of the prohibition law, declaring the field is clear for the establishment of a sound system of control and should be kept clear.

He said the Anderson plan is similar to the Brett system, which has attained great success in Sweden. Under this plan a bipartisan national commission would be set up and empowered to fix the alcoholic content of all liquors to be sold in the United States, to fix the price and "to fully regulate every aspect of the matter within the legitimate scope of the federal government."

Kidnaping Suspect Caught in Africa

Extradition of Deputy Is Sought by Prosecutor From Missouri

NEW YORK.—(AP)—James R. Page of Kansas City, Jackson county prosecutor, Tuesday obtained affidavits from members of the crew of the freighter City of New York who Monday identified photographs of Martin Depew, wanted in Kansas City on a kidnaping charge, as likenesses of "John M. Long," who deserted the ship in South Africa March 27.

The man, an engine wiper on the boat, was arrested Friday at Johannesburg at the request of the attorney general of Missouri. Missouri authorities are convinced he is Marshall Deputy, also known as Martin Depew, who is wanted in connection with the kidnaping of Mrs. Nell Donnelly, wealthy garment manufacturer.

Page planned to go to Washington Tuesday afternoon to confer with federal officials regarding the extradition of the man from South Africa. He said Tuesday he had received word from Kansas City that the trial of four persons under arrest for the kidnaping had been postponed from next Monday until May 23.

Hit With Stone, Skull Fractured

Youth Near Charleston Injured in Fight Following Row Over Girl

CHARLESTON.—Joe Caton, aged 19, is in a hospital here in a serious condition as a result of a fight with Alonzo Pierce, also 19. The two youths were said to have used stones for weapons.

Caton, officers were told, first struck Pierce, but the latter was not injured badly. Pierce then is said to have struck Caton just above the left eye, fracturing the skull.

The two youths live in the Vesta community, six miles north of Charleston. The fight was said to have resulted from an argument over a girl. The Pierce youth had not been arrested Tuesday night.

The Short Sellers

THE Senate's investigation into the short-sellers of Wall Street is bringing out some interesting facts, but it would be a mistake to put too much emphasis on the disclosures.

After all, it is perfectly obvious by this time that the depression was not caused by the malign influences of con-sciousless stock market operators who spread ruin by de-pressing stock prices below their normal levels. The causes go a whole lot deeper than that, and unfortunately there is no such simple remedy available as a mere prohibition of short sales.

In the main, declining stock prices have been a fairly accurate reflection of the state of industry's general health. To try to blame the whole business on Wall Street schemers is to delude one's self badly.

Change the Name of Arkansas?

REGARDLESS of whether the legendary lawmaker who noisily protested changing the name of Arkansas was Sen. Jackson of Jackson county, or Rep. Johnson of Johnson county, the two counties have been actually represented by men of those names.

Sen. Jackson, who formerly served a district including Jackson county, recently succeeded in convicting three men accused of killing his son, a Pocahontas peace officer, acting as special prosecuting attorney in the case. Jackson sponsored the bill which changed Arkansas' death penalty from hanging to electrocution.

Although the present Johnson county representative is named Johnston, instead of plain Johnson, he has managed to stir up legislative waters almost as well as his fictitious predecessor did. Johnston was a leader in the "rump" legisla-ture.

The legend of "Change the Name of Arkansas" sup-posedly originated from the tobacco-stained lips of a red-necked, horny-handed legislator who vigorously denounced a bill to change the official pronunciation of the state's name from "Arkansaw" to "Ar-kansas." Rep. Johnson (or Sen. Jackson, as some insist) profanely told his colleagues he didn't care how many crimes they committed, provided they didn't go in for a certain one, that particular offense being their trifling with the name of Arkansas.

A few persons maintain that such an outburst once oc-curred in legislative halls, but fortunately, the legend has not been preserved to any great extent.

To those who believe fairy tales, the old hillbilly's tirade saved the name "Arkansas" itself. But (in real life, another general assembly later met and made some alterations; for several years ago, a civic-minded legislature changed the Bear state into the Wonder state. This exalted twentieth century title, though somewhat justified, lacks popularity, and the ghost of Bruin remains, finding consolation at State Teachers College, Conway, where the athletic teams are still called Bears.

Arkansas' other mascot, the razorback hog, and Sandy Faulkner's famous break-down tune, "Arkansas Traveler," like the bear, have been glorified by tradition. Texarkana high school students honor the lowly porker; they bestowed his name upon their teams and newspaper. He is likewise respected at the state university, home of Razorback sports. As for the Arkansas Traveler, only this year the Little Rock baseball club owners insisted that their new Southern asso-ciation park be called Travelers Field, after the team itself, which proudly uses the title of Sandy's fiddle creation as its own name.

Until about ten years ago, the University of Arkansas newspaper was simply the "University Weekly." Now it's the Arkansas Traveler, and under such a distinctive name has won national recognition.

Perhaps the terms "Razorback," and "Traveler" were originally applied to Arkansas in derision, but the cit-izens have capitalized them more and more each year. His-tory shows the people apparently satisfied with the old names. With one or two exceptions, every county in the state still possesses christening title, and a recent attempt to change one of their names ended in failure. One year ago the alumni and students of an Arkansas college rose with indignation and, by a conservative majority of 100 to one, kept a board of trustees from changing the name of their alma mater.

It was only fitting that Jackson, of Jackson, (or John-son of Johnson) closed his argument by yelling, "Change the name of Arkansas? . . . No, never!"—Texarkana Press.

THEY MUST PULL TOGETHER

The two strongest links in the chain of any man's program of progress must be his THRIFT and his INDUSTRY.

If he is industrious he will earn the means with which to save consistently and persistently. And as his industry develops more ambitious efforts in investments and going into business for him-self his savings will be the means for carrying out his progressiveness.

Who says time hangs heavily non-sensical is talking. We can have fun if we just go out walking. We can see something our neighbor is doing. Smell the good dinner some housewife is stewing. Hear the birds singing and watch the shrubs growing. And always find something that's very worth knowing. We can see diversions inside of us hidden. If we'll but forget that we're being care-ridden. No need to be gloomy, no need to be lonely. No need to go seeking gay pleasures only. We don't need some stranger from brooding to win us. We'll find our contentment, ourselves, for it's in us.—E. A. ## Given 12 Years for Kidnaping Taxi Driver

CAMDEN, Ark.—(AP)—Convicted of robbery in connection with the kidnaping of Arthur Hodge, a taxicab operator, Houston Vance, 38, was sentenced to 12 years in prison in circuit court late Monday.

Vance was identified by Hodge as one of three men who abducted him last December, robbed him of $40, threw him out of his car and took it.

A kidnaping charge also is on file against him.

Officers have expressed the belief that Vance participated in bank robberies at Emerson, Ark., and Haynesville, La., in recent months. A few days ago he was said by officers to have plotted a jail break but they received information in advance and found a loaded pistol in the jail.

Early Cultivation With the Harrow

Control of Weeds and Grass Is Important Factor

Many experiments on cultivation have been conducted by experiment stations in different states. The Arkansas Experiment Station of the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture has carried such tests over a period of several years. There is one outstanding fact which these tests emphasize, namely, the greatest benefit from cultivation is the controlling of weeds and grass.

The best method of cultivation is the method which will kill weeds most rapidly and at least expense before they have done any damage, and the best implement is the one which will do this work most effectively and most rapidly, states D. J. Burleson, Extension agronomist, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture.

The harrow is admirably adapted to covering land rapidly, producing a dust mulch, and destroying weeds even before they can be seen. A spike-tooth harrow may be run diagonally across rows of corn or other crops without any damage to the young plants, provided there is not much trash in the field. The teeth should be set so that they slant backward at a considerable angle. Such cultivation kills the weeds before they have done any damage and puts the land in good condition for future cultivation.

Tarzan Coming to Saenger Thursday

Johnny Weissmuller, the World's Swimming Champion, Heads Cast

"Tarzan, the Ape Man," Edgar Rice Burroughs' widely-read African adventure novel, has been brought to the screen under the direction of W. S. Van Dyke of "Trader Horn" fame and will be shown Thursday and Friday at the Saenger.

Because the hero of this story is a white man who has been brought up in the jungle and lives like the apes in the tree-tops, making his way by swinging through them from limb to limb, difficulty was encountered in finding someone of sufficient athletic prowess to fill the exacting role.

The problem was solved when Johnny Weissmuller, world's champion swimmer and one of the finest examples of masculine physiques, was cast at Tarzan. Neil Hamilton and C. Aubrey Smith, as leaders of an English safari seeking ivory wealth, Maureen O'Sullivan as Smith's daughter, Doris Lloyd, Forrester Harvey and Ivory Williams fill the remaining principal roles.

What are reported to be some of the film's most hair-raising episodes include an attack of lions by night upon the safari camp; the crossing of a river willed with hippopotami; a fight between Tarzan and a bull-ape; the rescue of a trapped elephant and the subsequent efforts of the grateful beast to aid his rescuers.

There is also an amazing episode in which the heroine is carried through the trees by a herd of apes; the capture of the safari by the pygmy tribe; their subsequent escape from death in a gorilla pit and the spectacular charge of a huge herd of elephants through the pygmy village leaving devastation and terror in its wake.

Settings of tremendous magnitude were required in giving the picture the authentic backgrounds of the original locales laid in the African region around Lake Albert and the Mountains of the Moon where herds of giant apes are found. Hundreds of savage jungle beasts were used in the production for the filming of some of the most unusual animal scenes ever photographed.

Fireman Gets Wrong Number; Garage Burns

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Up to a certain point, George Oehlert of the Fire Department of suburban Maywood was nonchalant about the fire calls he was getting.

"Hurry down here," someone said to him over the telephone.

"Boys," he said to his fellow employees, "run down to 211 South Eight street and put out a fire."

Ten minutes later the telephone rang again, and one of the firemen reported no fire could be found.

"Guess I got the wrong address," replied Oehlert. "Come on in and wait until we get another call."

The firemen returned. The telephone rang again. Oehlert answered it.

"Clickety," he shouted, "that wrong number fire is at my house, make it snappy."

The firemen did, but the roof of Oehlert's garage was burned by the time they got there.

HEATH was a little way beyond the door when he saw the man who was waiting for him. He was a man of about thirty, with dark hair and a mustache, and he was wearing a suit and tie.

"You're late," he said. "I thought you were coming." Heath looked at his watch. It was ten minutes past ten. "I'm sorry," he said. "I was delayed."

"That's all right," the man said. "Come in." Heath followed him into a room that was dimly lit. The man sat down at a table and Heath stood by the door.

"What is it?" the man asked. "I'm not going. Nothing could induce me to."

"That's all right," the man said. "I'm not going. Nothing could induce me to." Heath looked at his watch. It was ten minutes past ten. "I'm sorry," he said. "I was delayed."

Spindly-legged, under-developed, 13-year-old Edith Riley is shown at left as she appeared after her rescue from a dark closet last November, and at right as she looks today after four months of expert care in a Washington hospital.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Wise science and the mysterious, wonder-working processes of nature have made 13-year-old Edith Riley whole again. The pitiful little human wreck that they called "The Bat Child" when they dragged her last November from a dark closet that was her prison in a Washington home, has been developed into a normal, healthy individual by treatment at Gallinger Hospital here. The child, victim of a hateful step-mother who confined her to a lightless "cell," weighed only 38 pounds when she was rescued by a policeman. She had been fed only scraps. She had been given no opportunity to learn to talk and could answer only "Yes" and "No." She could barely walk upon her spindly legs. Her body was scarred. She blinked furiously in the light. Today, physicians describe her as a child like any other child. She walks, runs, sings, shouts, and plays with toys. Her intelligence, which examination early proved to be normal, has been given an opportunity to develop. Kind words and treatment have put to route the ugly fears which beset her. A long series of injections of pituitary extract has enabled her bones to grow to normal size. Neglected muscles have grown stronger. Nature, aided by science and kindness, freed of handicaps, has worked its miracles.

Proud Of It

Wife: What qualifications are necessary to make a successful card player? Hubby: A man must be cool, calculating, crafty, cunning, and have a touch of meanness in his disposition. "Oh, John! Surely you would not like to play cards with such horrid people!" "That's all right. I nearly always win."—Tit-Bits.

Child Prodigy Teaches at 7

A daughter of immigrant parents who can neither read nor write English, Joanna Xenos, 7, shown at her desk in top of picture, has passed from first to eighth grade in the year she has been attending school in Chicago. Her father is a Greek and her mother is Polish. Frequently she assists teachers in instructing pupils from 8 to 11 years old in reading and writing. In lower picture is shown second from left teaching writing to classmates.

May Important To Dairy Farmer

Good Quality Found to Yield More Profit to Owners

One thing that the men who are keeping records on their cows learn is the value of good hay in cheapening the cost of producing milk and as a means of cutting down the grain feed, states W. H. Woodley, Extension Dairyman, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture.

The man finds that when they have a kilogram hay cut at the right time and cured with the least exposure to sun and rain, a cow that will not give more than 16 pounds of milk (2 gallons) per day will do this on good hay alone. This method of feeding has brought the cow down so that year 1931 was satisfactory. The records prove that they are doing as well as when prices were much higher. The counties that have worked out a hay and pasture program for their low producing cows and using home grown grains with the hay and pasture for the high producers are not discouraged with future outlook.

The following are comments of some of the men who have been testing: "The best year I ever had." "When my cows got down to 16 pounds of milk I gradually cut off the grain, with good hay they kept this up." "Good hay cuts my costs 50 per cent." "I raised by herd average 25 per cent my first year through testing." "My cows saved my cotton crop through the use of home grown feeds."

She was also elected vice president of the Camden district of the Arkansas Federation of Women's Clubs at Texarkana, recently.

Boston Indicates Votes for Smith for President

BOSTON—The campaign for this state's 36 votes at the democratic national convention ended Monday night amid indications that candidates pledged to Alfred E. Smith would win a majority of places on a split delegation in Tuesday's presidential preference primary. With the Pennsylvania primary it will be the first pre-convention election in which Franklin D. Roosevelt and Smith will face each other in an out-and-out battle for delegates. The decision in this state will be clean cut as the campaign has been complicated by no extraneous issues. There is not even a favorite son in Massachusetts.

In but four of the 15 congressional districts, Roosevelt-placed candidates are favored to win.

Swallows Glass to End Life, Prisoner Says

TEXARKANA, Tex.—Bob White, Bowie county jailer, said John G. Harris of Bono, Ark., held for murder, told him he had swallowed a large quantity of ground glass in an effort to end his life. Although Harris showed the jailer the remains of a broken bottle, White said he was skeptical of Harris' story. Harris was said by officers to have attempted suicide Saturday by drinking poison but his life was saved by a stomach pump.

He is held for the murder of Ed Royal, a transient, near Bossett, Tex. or March 12. A jury last week declared Harris sane. Later Harris was said to have told other prisoners that he feigned insanity. His trial is set for next month.

"Squadron of Death"

Airport On Seine

PARIS—Andre Lurcat, young French architect, has advanced the idea of an airport on the River Seine to enable planes to land in the heart of the city instead of in the suburbs. The field as envisioned by Lurcat, would be built on piles in the middle of the river, room enough being left on each side to permit river traffic to function normally.

As the rider's feet move the propeller, that attachment revolves and pushes the bicycle along. A speed of about 15 miles an hour has been maintained.

Kiss Picture—Might Be New Style Photography

You wouldn't think by looking at those girls that they posed for a scientific experiment. Their eyes closed, lips pursed, heads tilted for a kiss—this kind of photograph may become the latest fashion. You can imagine Young Marge and Elizabeth posing for a picture of his latest fame (posed as above) for sparetime practice. These two young ladies, Misses Marge Lowe, left, and Elizabeth Guidi of Memphis, Tenn., were the mediums for a kissing experiment conducted by a Southwestern University professor who wanted to know what kind of bacilli the lips carried. The experiment proved that love was a contagious disease.
